- SYNEDUC, Rwanda, 7,000 members

The East African teacher trade unions have established the Federation of East African Teachers' Unions, FEATU, who represents the East African teachers towards the governments' representatives in the East African Community, EAC.

Development goal

The regional project has national as well as regional elements. The national elements are described in separate factsheets (Rwanda, Burundi and Zanzibar). The regional elements consist in 1-2 regional annual conferences for all the teacher unions, and they deal with themes such as education policy, strategy development, teachers' working conditions, service to the members, quality in education etc.

Time frame and budget

The current phase started in 2022 and will be concluded in 2023. The annual budget for the project is 620,000 DKK (83,000 €) and is financed by Danida through the LO-FTF Council

Facts about the region

- East African Community, EAC, is a free trade area covering Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, Rwanda and Burundi. The next phase of the East African integration is a common currency, followed by a political union.
- EAC was formed in 2000 by the governments of Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda, in 2007 Rwanda and Burundi became members as well, and in 2016, South Sudan became member.
- The EAC countries have a total of 173m inhabitants and cover an area of 2.4m square kilometres.

School situation

The school situation is different from one country to another, but there are also many similarities. The class sizes in the urban areas are often 50 – 75 pupils and some schools have over 100 pupils in one class. In many schools there are not enough tables or chairs for the pupils. There is lack of teaching materials, pencils and notebooks and often there are only a few textbooks, two or three, for a whole class. Special subject rooms are practically non-existent. However, it is a big progress that over 90 per cent of all children go to primary school.

Background and project development

DLF's cooperation with KNUT started in 1982, the TTU cooperation in 1995 and the cooperation with ZATU and UNATU started in 2003. The project has been regional since 2008, implying that the teacher unions share knowledge and experiences, and support each other in South-South cooperation. UNATU has chosen only to participate in the regional cooperation.

When Rwanda and Burundi became members of EAC, the DLF initiated cooperation (2009) with the teacher unions in both countries, financed by DLF's own membership fees. The aim was to strengthen the unions and to prepare the young and relatively unexperienced teacher unions for being included in the regional project cooperation. Since 2011, the cooperation with the teacher unions of Rwanda and Burundi has been financed by Danida through the LO-FTF Council.
